

Course "Criminal law (general part)"

The discipline "Criminal Law (general part)" is a fundamental discipline that belongs to the cycle of basic professional training of applicants for the first degree of higher education "bachelor" in the specialty 081 "Law".

If you are interested in becoming a lawyer, then one of the most important disciplines during your studies at the university should be criminal law, which is a classic discipline in the training of lawyers, taught in Ukraine for over a century. None of the prominent domestic legal scholars, well-known statesmen and public figures and representatives of the field of practical jurisprudence has escaped the study of this branch of law.

Criminal law is a fundamental branch of the legal system of the state, because the state is primarily interested in its existence and development. The study of criminal law will convince you that it is a leading branch of public law that protects your legal rights and freedoms, the interests of society and the state from criminal encroachment, and is the most acute and effective weapon in combating and preventing crime.

Mastering the theory of criminal law, the application of criminal law will allow you to realize that this discipline is a set of many factors that make up the doctrine of crime and punishment, as well as a number of criminal law that determine a crime and punishment for it.

Studying criminal law will help you to find out a certain system of principles, methods, rules, algorithms and techniques that are essential and will help not only to master this area of legal knowledge, but also other related areas of modern law.

No legal field of professional activity can do without thorough knowledge, skills and abilities that you will acquire while studying criminal law. You will be able to control the level of your professional training during systematic testing, which in the future in the conditions of competition in employment and career growth will serve as a reliable basis for the successful completion of professional competitions.

Acquired professional knowledge and competencies in criminal law will be a means of ensuring the inviolability of your constitutional rights, reliable legal and moral guidelines in personal, professional, official and other areas of your activity.

A solid legal background that can be obtained in the study of criminal law is useful for anyone who wants to better understand the purpose of jurisprudence and properly prepare themselves for a career in criminal justice as a judge, prosecutor, investigator, detective, lawyer or other professional law enforcement and justice.